This jury questionnaire concerns a criminal case for which jurors are being selected.

An indictment is a formal document that begins a criminal case. It is not evidence.

In this case, the indictment alleges the following:

The Defendants, Gordon Coburn and Steven Schwartz, allegedly authorized an improper $2 million payment to one or more Indian government officials. This payment was allegedly made to obtain a permit needed by their company to build an office facility in India. And that, it is alleged, violated United States criminal law in a number of ways, including by violating the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act.

The defendants deny the allegations against them.

They are presumed innocent.
